Metallic Finish

Orient Bell has launched Kerinox tiles which stands out for its metallic finish. These tiles are produced through an intense process of pressing at high pressure, followed by the application of a special glaze imported from Spain, and lastly by running them through a digital printing machine. To improve the aesthetic value of the tile, a thin layer of transparent coating is applied, which gives the silver tone upon firing at a temperature of 1200C, after which it is polished with special abrasives. These tiles are available in 600X1200 and 600X600 sizes.
